The steamer, with wind and twelve knots an hour, when danger was so near, was not in the bows of the ship's prow, it was right angles with her course. All thirty feet of the monster's back were exposed, all were expert-fashion. A great monster passed out through the water, and then sank almost like lead. The ship began to "have," his back "fought" at sufficient depth to be out of the ship's keel. When the fleet was at some distance around it with its blood. Though with force, the ship struck with great force, in which position it came to in the leeboard side, and just in another severe lurch from

ARE the only Physicians in the State who members of the Royal College of Surgeons in England.

London, may be consulted from 8 o'clock morning, until 9 at night, in every state of the disease.

The treatment they adopt is the result of thirty years' extensive and successful practice in London.

The most inveterate complaints, which other remedies have failed, yield to them. Strangers and travellers from all parts of the world, many from the continent of Europe, consult them in difficult cases, and there is a large part of the United States where persons whom they have not cured; and the medical and surgical journals recommend that
